INTRODUCTION

In honor of Black History Month, the New York State Library is issuing An African-American Bibliography: Education. This bibliography lists selected resources of the New York State Library that document and comment on the educational experiences of African Americans in the United States. In addition to primary sources and significant works, this document contains selected references to bibliographies, research aids, and reference works. Resource materials in journals and reports are not emphasized. Researchers should consult abstracts and indexes for this literature.

Although this bibliography covers the time period from colonial to the present, it emphasizes recent scholarship, including the multicultural approach to education.

The Biography section emphasizes teachers, administrators, and founders of educational institutions. For notable contributors in other fields, see additional bibliographies in this series (listed below).

The mission of the New York State Library is to provide reference, information, and materials to support the work of New York State government and to ensure that every resident of the State has convenient free access to essential library services. To carry out this mission, the Library serves as the principal library resource for state government and serves as a coordinating and resource center for the statewide interlibrary loan network. Many of the works listed here can be borrowed through interlibrary loan, if not available at local libraries. The interlibrary loan process is expedited if the call number (listed in parentheses after each citation) is included. However, some works have been listed which are not available for loan.

This bibliography was compiled by Glenis Ratcliff, a reference librarian at the New York State Library.

Other bibliographies in this series are:

An African American Bibliography: The Arts.

An African American Bibliography: History.

An African-American Bibliography: Science, Medicine and Allied Fields.
